

USPS Executive Diversity Council

The USPS Executive Diversity Council is sponsored by the Postmaster General. Ronald Stroman, Deputy Postmaster General and Anthony Vegliante, Chief Human Resources officer serve as co-chairs.

The purpose of the Executive Diversity Council (EDC) is to demonstrate the expertise and leadership needed to foster a workplace that values the diversity and inclusion of its employees and to communicate USPS leadership's focus on Diversity as a Business Strategy. By cultivating a diverse and inclusive workforce, the U.S. Postal Service will attract, retain and promote talented individuals who will allow USPS to compete in a rapidly changing marketplace.

The Council's primary roles are strategic advisement, support the implementation of diversity and inclusion programs, serve as ambassadors to promote diversity and inclusion and to advise on strategic alliances.

The Executive Diversity Council members are:

Name	Title
Ronald A. Stroman	Deputy Postmaster General
Anthony J. Vegliante	Chief Human Resources Officer
Megan J. Brennan	Chief Operating Officer
Mary Anne Gibbons	General Counsel
Deborah Giannoni-Jackson	VP, Employee Resource Management
Susan M. Brownell	VP, Supply Management
Giselle E. Valera	VP, Global Business
Richard P. Uluski	VP, Area Operations
William A. Campbell	Judicial Officer
Cynthia Sanchez	Manager, Pricing
Susan McKeen	Manager, Leadership Development and Talent Management
Betty Davis-Smith	Manager, Diversity & Inclusion